

KIMBERLY PAGE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF AADC YOUNG LAWYER'S DIVISION BOARD OF DIRECTORS

July 15, 2021 | News, Press Releases

Jones, Skelton & Hochuli is pleased to announce that associate attorney Kimberly Page has been named president of the Arizona Association of Defense Counsel Young Lawyers Division (AADC YLD) 2021-2022 Board of Directors. Kimberly previously served as the AADC YLD vice president and board secretary.

The AADC YLD Board coordinates continuing education seminars and law school competitions, hosts social events for all members, and files amicus briefs on legal issues of significance to members and their clients.

Kimberly represents insurers and their insureds in matters involving professional liability, premises liability, dram shop and social host liability, construction defect liability, and community association liability. While pursuing her law degree at Hofstra University's Maurice A. Deane School of Law, Kimberly volunteered with the Hofstra Law Criminal Justice Clinic, where she represented indigent clients in the Nassau County District Court and Queens County Criminal Court. She was active in Mock Trial Competitions and earned second place in the New York ABA Labor and Employment Trial Competition. Kimberly earned her B.F.A. in Dance Performance from Butler University, a nationally recognized dance program focusing on classical ballet.

AADC is a nonprofit organization made up of lawyers practicing across every substantive area within the defense bar primarily in the area of civil defense litigation.
