

MIKE HALVORSON TO PARTICIPATE IN THE LORMAN EDUCATION SERVICES’ “COMMERCIAL VEHICLE ACCIDENT CASES” WEBINAR

June 21, 2018 | Events, News

JSH Partner Mike Halvorson will be participating in the Lorman Education Services’ “Commercial Vehicle Accident Cases” webinar. Truck accidents are inherently different than other roadway accidents. The focus of the litigation is often not the accident itself, but everything that led up to the accident. The ability to prosecute or defend a motor carrier following a significant loss is therefore directly related to the investigation undertaken, which ideally should begin immediately following the accident. This topic will provide a detailed account of the steps counsel will take to obtain the information needed to successfully represent their client – including when and how to conduct the investigations into the driver, the motor carrier and the trip itself. The discussion will highlight the six key aspects of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations (FMCSRs) – which both the driver and carrier are required to follow – and will specifically discuss record keeping requirements, and the best use of experts to assist in gathering and evaluating the evidence obtained. This content is designed for lawyers, claims handlers, and risk managers handling personal injury and death cases related to trucking and commercial vehicle accidents.

Mike’s diverse practice focuses on trucking and transportation defense, including commercial cargo and property loss, as well as in the areas of product liability, dram shop claims, motor vehicle liability and premises liability defense. In addition, Mike Co-Chairs the firm’s Transportation, Auto, Products and General Liability Trial Group.
