Bryson Brown's practice focuses mainly on insurance defense and commercial litigation, but he also handles personal injury, constitutional rights, product liability, and professional liability matters. His clients include individuals as well as many local businesses and government agencies. A recent addition to the JSH General Liability Trial Group, Bryson's experience and commitment make him an asset to the firm and those we serve.

Bryson clerked for Utah's 4th District Court and the Utah Office of the Attorney General prior to his time in private practice. He received his J.D. from the S.J. Quinney College of Law at the University of Utah, where he served as the Note and Comment Editor for the Utah Environmental Law Review.
